

Price per word for translation

Price per hour for editing, proofreading, language training and associated services, e.g. extra file formatting work

Price per hour also applies for translations of Excel and PowerPoint files

The minimum charge for all services is 1 hour.

A good translation doesn't come free but nor does it have to cost a fortune.

Flexibility on translation deadlines

A translation is often the final phase of a project, which has to be completed by a fixed deadline. Depending on the size of the job, LIne can sometimes turn a translation around over a weekend – without extra charges. However, there is an unwritten rule that translations should be set aside at least overnight as the brain continues to subconsciously process the text after you have stopped actively working on it, resolving mental blocks and coming up with new ideas.